Gould Wins Pair in Week

GOULD 54—WILTON 38

Wilton Academy, Eastern Division Champions of the Sun-Journal League, found the going tough here last Tuesday as they received a 56-28 beating from the Gould Academy five. The game was "nlp and tuck" during the first two periods as the visitors managed to keep out front 14-12 and 24-23.

In the last half the Huskies refused to play an all court game and finally slowed the visiting Eagles down to their own speed. It was the third period that sent the winners on to win as they piled up a 18-5 count. Leo Rolfe with 20 points, played his best game of the year as did Pete Johnson also, coming thru with 14 points. Agness scored in double figures too, with 13.

For the visitors the only man to score over five points was their guard Tothaker with 12. Their leading scorer for the season, Beasaw, was held to four points.

In the preliminary the JV's continued their winning ways with a 43-28 victory over the "B" squad All Stars.

GOULD 53—NORWAY 44

Behind 5-14 and 10-22 in the first two periods, Gould rallied sharply after the intermission and quickly caught up with Norway. Before the third period was over the Huskies had scored 19 points and were leading 35-28. It was the work of Rolfe and Johnson who scored 11 and 6 points during this period that sent the Huskies out front to win finally by a 53-44 score. The winners had eight men in the scoring column while only five Rams counted for the losers. Gould got nine free tosses out of 17 chances with Leo Rolfe making six out of

CITIZENS ARE WAKING UP

The population of the United States may be on the verge of becoming politically active in a big way. Such a development is forecast in the flood of mail that has come in as a result of my suggestion in a recent column that on all election days in 1952—local, state and national each eligible voter actually vote by giving a little red-white-and-blue tag to wear in his lapel. The idea received nationwide publicity and people in every section of the country are writing me.

The League of Women Voters of Yarmouth-Bethel, Pa., report that they have tried out the "Tag Day" idea and have found it to be excellent stimulation for potential voters. The tags were used there weeks ago in a local election in Mountain Home, Ark., and in two parishes where Louisiana Democrats held a primary a few days later. And letters on my desk repeat that in both instances the tags and attendant publicity helped boost the percentage of eligible voters who went to the polls. The little tags have the challenge: "I Have Voted! Have You?"

All Joining Hands
The tag movement traces its roots to the fact that many people from all kinds of organizations, groups and individuals and they all express a determination to work for something that will stir up the population to the importance of each individual citizen becoming an intelligent and regular voter. Already a great many people are writing from coast to coast asking the Bethel College Board to put out the "Tag Day" program in 1952.

An official of the League for Political Education writes that "This is a valuable work in which the League for Political Education is greatly interested." An official of the Boy Scouts of America writes: "For the President-elect to have this tag day will give a real boost to the idea of citizenship in the United States. The plan for this great idea is now under way."

The Press Echoes
Paul Harvey, one of the nation's top radio and television commentators is giving the "Tag Day" idea wide publicity on his ABC radio Broadcasting System coast-to-coast broadcasts. "Normally I distrust tag days," he says on the broadcast. "But Harvard College has come up with a tag day idea which I wholeheartedly approve. They would hand out a small red white and blue shield at the voting place on election day. I hope the idea spreads fast. I hope there is every another election in the United States in which half of those eligible to vote fail to do so."

The American Committee of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce has adopted "The Power of Your Vote" presentation as part of the nationwide "Freedom Place" project in which 1,000 local groups are able to participate. The general manager of Newspaper's Inc., largest Polish newspaper in America published in Buffalo, N.Y., writes: "As a publisher interested in seeing that 100 percent of our readers vote in all national campaigns we will be interested in material for promoting this program in our newspapers."

In Our Hands
T. E. Johnson, managing editor of the Associated Press, reports: "I wrote the tag Sunday during a local election and it drew much comment. It would be our idea to sponsor 'Tag Day' on the various election days coming up this year." The Herald-Belt, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., writes: "We get the idea to sponsor your plan in this area." Mrs. Leslie W. Davis, principal, North Heights Elementary School, Madison, Conn., says she desires to use "The Power of Your Vote" before Parent-Teacher Association groups.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

It is clear that the fight for the Republican Presidential nomination will be one of the hardest in history. Both the backers of Taft and the backers of Eisenhower are passionately devoted to their cause. Both are totally convinced that their man is the best bet—not only on his qualifications for the world's most important and exhausting job, but in his ability to win the election.

On the Eisenhower side, one of the most potent arguments is that he is the only available Republican who could unify the country, and he is virtually sure of decisively defeating Mr. Truman or any other Democratic nominee. Walter Lippmann put the Eisenhower case well when he wrote in a late column: "A change of party has become most necessary after 20 years. The Truman administration is played out. It has lost effective control in the executive branch, as witness on the one hand the corruption and on the other the domination of policy by the swollen and competing bureaucracies."

"Eisenhower offers much the best way out of the dilemma which is posed as long as the choice is between Taft and Truman or Truman's heir. With Taft the most probable result is another Democratic victory. Next in probability there is a Taft victory achieved by a seriously bitter and divisive struggle. With Eisenhower the country can have for the taking a new administration which has behind it the largest and widest popular support, which is more truly national in its constituency, than any other administration in our time."

"This view is by no means universally held. The Taft camp aggressively denies that their man is a great public following. The Freeman magazine recently said:

"In 1920 the whole strength of the Truman Administration was thrown into Ohio to beat Taft out of the senatorship. . . . They threw mud at Taft and, more importantly, they threw the paper green stuff that still unaccountably goes by the name of money. But in spite of screeches and caterwauling, half-pulling and invective, slander and demagoguery, on the part of the Democrats. . . . Bob Taft was in again. He had carried 54 out of the 68 counties, including all the industrial districts in the state. He did this in spite of the fact that Frank Lausche, a Democrat, won the Ohio governorship." The Freeman then said that the polls proved that Taft's public standing has steadily improved. Last June the Gallup poll gave Eisenhower 30 per cent preference as against 22 per cent for Taft. Six months later Eisenhower still had his 30 per cent while Taft had gone up to 28 per cent.

So much for the Republican side. To turn to the Democrats, the feeling grows in Washington circles that the President is fed up with his job, that he is disillusioned over friends who let him down, and that he will not run again. A few months ago it seemed certain that the President would be able to name the candidate and that the convention would follow his lead automatically. That is not so certain now. All the polls indicate that Truman prestige has reached a new low, and powerful forces in the Democratic party are bitter at the President, his closest advisors, and such Cabinet members as McGrath and Snyder, within whose departments the scandals occurred. An inter-party revolt against the White House may not occur on any great scale, but it is certainly possible. Some of the Kefauver backers may be counting on it. Senator Kefauver, an aggressive and personable man, has not been at all popular in Presidential circles, and his public reputation is the result of his investigation of sordid tie-ups between criminals and politicians.

THE AMERICAN WAY & BIRTH OF UNIONS

by Maurice R. Frank

FORWARD NOTE: Maurice R. Frank is President of the National Labor-Management Foundation and Editor of its official publication, PARTNERS.

Too many people are prone to condemn unionism in the whole. Every time a strike occurs, some would-be reformer rushes to Washington with a proposed act of legislation designed to stop all strikes on the ground that such are against the public welfare.

Unfortunately such proposals look to my mind far more like a method of escape than a method of solution. However, the fact of unionism cannot be tried on the basis of mere superficialities. There is more to the rat than the claws it or a scaly snake.

To judge the unions in their present relation to our economy, we must consider what brought them into being in the first place. We don't have to delve very deeply into history to unearth the fact that it was the stupidity, the avariciousness and the plain shortsightedness of the businessmen himself that created unionism as an economic force. Many a person alive today still remembers the foul working conditions that existed prior to the establishment of effective unions.

It wasn't so many years ago that men were compelled to toil from sunrise to sundown for the mere subsistence children were made of six or seven. If you please, were forced to perform manual labor in order to help maintain their families. The records of industry rank with the stench from the sweatshops where men and women worked long hours under conditions which were nothing short of slavery. The human dignity of the worker particularly in the textile industry, was trampled underfoot and literally spat upon by the awakening. With corruption weakening the character of our government and our nation, with the United States smoldering at war in Korea and stirring for even a bigger conflict, with a soaring national debt and with inflation and high taxes sapping the earning power of all citizens, perhaps the American people are ready to accept the old adage: "We get the kind of government we deserve." And citizenship, an informed citizenry, a government that gets its way, a government that does not. The problem is in our hands as individual Americans.

"I Have Voted! Have You?"

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

There is much confusion in the land also there is much suspicion—likewise much doubt—also lack of confidence as to just what is planned for us, Main Street citizens that is. We have a war on our hands we have dictators in the cabinet cars travelling up and down and across the landscape putting props under prices—pulling the foundations from our established customs—whittling down our freedom to keep what we earn lessening our right to work for what pay, where, or for how much.

We did not figure we would have all this jumble and lack of contentment when we swarmed down to the vote place a dozen years ago and voted a big "you bet" to the idea that we would be rolling in milk and honey if we just turned over the whole shebang to the wizards.

Now look at us—Utopia, where art thou? It was a mirage, like the palm and dates on the Sahara, just beyond the grasp. Now, I say this. Like the sinner who kneels and confesses—let every sucker shake off his pride and confess his past suckerdom. Admit he was not as smart as he thought. Then roll up the sleeves and start clearing out the rubbish—rubbish in Gov't, that is. So long, and good luck, folks.

Yours with the low down

"We have not yet begun to make the case which will save freedom. We have not adequately told the people of the world on what freedom depends, the continuance of a system whose chief dedication is in a constant daily challenge of the status quo. LINCOLN, REALIST AND PROPHET

"This is essentially a peoples' contest—-it is a struggle for maintaining in the world that form and substance of Government whose leading object is to elevate the condition of men; to lift artificial weights from all shoulders; to clear the paths of laudable pursuit for all; to afford all an unfettered start and a fair chance in the race of Life."

ACROSS the DESK

Ideas from other editors

GRASSROOTS EDITORS across the country have been turning lately over attempts to check the free flow of news, especially from government bureaus and agencies. One recent editorial claims the attention, Roy Clippinger, writing in the Carmel Times, Carmel, Ill., had this to say:

"Abraham Lincoln once made a remark to the general effect that if you let the people have the facts the country will be safe. Apparently this same belief is not shared by all these in government now."

"Under the guise of 'security' many facts are withheld that the people are entitled to know. One proposal was even offered that all of the government agencies be 'sealed' which would keep it from becoming available to any news source."

"Too frequently the American people are treated as children by the leaders. Only such information is fed to them as would be favorably received."

Lincoln's concept and let the people have the facts—even though sometimes they may be shocking."

Lets Fight Boys

A purely local fight is developing between two Indiana weekly publications that should provide the readers with some interesting reading in the next few weeks. Of all things, it started over taxes. Sage Observation

In the column, Scribbles—Wise, Unwise and Otherwise, in The Wright County Monitor, Clarion, Iowa, appeared this bit of sage observation:

"When grandma was a young lady, she wore a heavy coat, a wool hood, wool hose and other similar clothing to travel about in sled or buggy in braving northern Iowa winter weather."

"But what does her granddaughter do? She puts on her 60 gauge nylon, open toe and heel shoes, a colorful scarf, a fur coat maybe. Of course, some say the winters are getting milder—and what further proof do you need?"

NEW HOPE FOR HEARTS

Dedicated to the Heart Fund

by EDGAR A. GUEST

Mr. Guest

New Hope for Hearts is promised with every passing year;
New hope, new strength and courage for those who live in fear.
The menace that is greatest, that cripples hearts today,
To new-found skills and wisdom is surely giving way.

Our help is all that's needed—nor is it much to give—
So one who is afflicted, a normal life may live.
A gift of time for study—a month, a week, a day—
And hope for hearts will follow as research finds the way.

The ills of hearts are many, yet each must conquered be,
And will when men of science to seek for truth are free.

New Hope for Hearts is promised with these the gifts we ask;
The time to search for knowledge, the means to do the task.

IN POST STORY CHAMBERS TELLS OF HISS CASE AND RED THREAT TO AMERICA

Whittaker Chambers, confessed former communist, says that the American people have consistently overlooked the real meaning of the famous Hiss case by mistaking the courtroom drama for its true significance which was that the time communism and freedom had come to grips.

The Saturday Evening Post this week begins publication of Chambers' story, "I Was the Witness," in which Chambers publicly relates for the first time the full details of the Hiss case and describes the true dimensions of the communist threat to America. Emphasizing the significance placed on the article by the magazine, this week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post appears for the first time since 1939 without a cover illustration.

Instead a hand lettered announcement of the appearance of the Chambers manuscript is featured on the cover.

In the first article, Chambers explains how communism can recruit and hold some of the best minds alive, and warns that communism is a more potent and insidious threat to the American interior "You will not find out what it is by calling communism 'communism'," he says. The real power of the communist appeal, he declares, comes from the force of communist conviction that it is necessary now to change the world "Their power," Chambers continues, "which nature buffers the rest of the world because in a large measure the rest of the world has lost that power is the power to lead convictions and act upon them."

John Hilda editor of the Saturday Evening Post, described the Chambers story as "the most important piece of articles that the Saturday Evening Post has carried in my ten years as editor." It has a profound meaning for every American, he said.

A major portion of the first installment of the Chambers manuscript is in the form of a letter to the children where he explains that as long as they live the shadow of the Hiss case will loom against them. In every pair of eyes that stare on you," he warns them, "you will see a pair of eyes that are as cold as a cloud passing behind a woods in winter, the memory of your father discredited by friendly eyes, looking in unfriendly eyes. Sometimes you will wonder which is harder to bear, friendly forgiveness or forthright hate."

Chambers describes as "disturbing" but not tragic the fact that the Hiss case caused him to give up a $2000-a-year editorial job and caused the brilliant public career of Alger Hiss to be cut short.

Chambers also defended what he called the "showmanship" of the House Committee on Un-American Activities on the grounds that showmanship was almost the only weapon the committee possessed.

"Without that flair for showmanship," he said, "which was the greatest talent of this investigation," Hiss might have been the most important work which the committee has done in exposing the communist conspiracy would have been reduced to a nullity.

Hiss stepped directly from the car without a single glance, for Hiss was a gambler. He loved to take a chance.

Hiss widow has remarried. Yes, this someone else's wife. For Hiss gambled heavily. He BET and LOSE his life!

"MORE PAYROLLS FOR MAINE" TO BE HUSSEY'S CAMPAIGN SLOGAN IN PRIMARY RACE

"More Payrolls for Maine" will be his campaign slogan in the Republican gubernatorial race culminating in the primaries on June 10, Leroy F. Hussey, chairman of the Governor's Executive Council, announced today.

Hussey declared that if nominated and elected Governor, a program of building up job opportunities in Maine will be his principal objective. More jobs in industry, agriculture, recreation, sea and shore fisheries and all other business activities will be his prime concern, Hussey asserted.

The Republican candidate has operated a large hardware and real estate business in Augusta for some 25 years, during 18 of which he has been elected to various city and State offices. He has been a member of the Governor's Executive Council for the past five years and is the present chairman. Over the years he has been a leading member of a number of city and State business, fraternal, civic and veterans organizations.

In noting that his campaign would be centered around "more payrolls, more business, more development" in Maine, Hussey pointed out that he hopes thereby to carry on the business promotion policies of Gov. Frederick Payne, but to do everything in his power to intensify such a program.

Hussey said he had been greatly encouraged by the support he has obtained in visits to every section of Maine during the past two months, but that he realized a lot of hard work must be done in the campaign between now and June 10.

FUNDS URGED FOR CIVIL DEFENSE
The cities and towns of Maine have been urged by the State Civil Defense Director to appropriate funds for Civil Defense at the forthcoming town meetings.

In a letter to county and municipal officials, Brig. General Spaulding Fisher, State Civil Defense Director, called attention to opinions of national leaders that a strong Civil Defense establishment is a "vital part of the national defense in the defense of the nation."

He asked for a minimum of $250 plus 15 cents per capita to be appropriated for CD activities. He further recommended that the finger towns and cities should mark more.

Among the items connected with Civil Defense and Public Safety which might create yearly expenses to most communities are: telephone services, fuel and maintenance for observation posts, radio equipment, auxiliary firefighting equipment, air raid warning signals, first aid supplies and office and clerical help and supplies.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Risks Mean Progress

by George Peck

George Peck

EDITOR'S NOTE: George Peck is Chairman of the Board of the Labor - Management Foundation and Executive Editor of its official publication, PARTNERS.

All history proves that without risks there can be no progress. Those eras characterized by risk-taking were the most progressive, while periods in which people clutched at security were epochs of non-progress, stagnation and retrogression. History also reveals that whenever a free people retreated from risk, they reverted back to a condition of servitude and slavery.

Every forward advance in America has been marked by risk-taking. The Pilgrim Fathers left sheltered homes to brave the unknown, with no guarantee of security or liberty. During the first winter in Plymouth, one half of these risk-takers died of starvation, yet, when the Mayflower left for England the next Spring, not one of the surviving Pilgrims returned to what would have been a life of comparative comfort and security. They were willing to pay a real price for freedom.

This same spirit dominated the pioneer who converted the American wilderness into a mighty industrial empire in a short period of time, into a giant production machine that contributed so much to victory in two world wars and in our bulwark in the present emergency.

But just as risks are inherent in the very nature of business enterprise, there were rewards commensurate with the hazards involved. Investment of capital involves possibility of loss, and no one can afford for long to incur risks, nor will one do so, without prospect for profit. Yet, for the past two decades, the average net return after taxes upon capital invested in American industry has fallen to a level that is not adequate compensation for the use of that capital.

For the first 150 years of our history, American business enterprises took chances because there was prospect of liberal rewards for risks involved and contributions made. Then came the Great Depression of the 30's. The confusion and anxiety of that period developed a deflationary theory on the part of some, a belief that America had reached the peak of development, and that there was no further outlet for business capital. The proponents of this new, foolish school of thought held that the federal government should obtain money from taxation and borrowing, and redistribute it through dots, subsidies and public works.

Unfortunately these ill-advised economists prevailed and we entered into an era of mounting government deficits, sharply increased corporate taxes and multiplying government regulations. Venture capital went into hiding, and it will stay there until we throw overboard the policy of "spending ourselves rich" and get back to the principles which enabled us during the first 150 years of our history to build the most prosperous civilization the world has ever known.

To do this we must repeal the 16th (Income Tax) Amendment. Mention has been made frequently in this column of the proposal to set up a new amendment to limit the power of Congress in peacetime to impose taxes on incomes, inheritances and gifts to a maximum of 25 per cent. Already several of the states have passed resolutions to the Congress to call a convention for the purpose of submitting such an amendment to the States for ratification. If two-thirds (33) States enact such resolutions, Congress must do so.

Such a tax limitation on Congress would bring risk capital out of hiding, that capital every dollar of which is needed if America is to keep economically strong and to get us back on the pathway we trod for 150 years with such unprecedented success.

A Pharisee and a Repentant Woman

Lesson for February 10: Luke 7: 36-50

Golden Text: 1 John 1:9

THIS LESSON might better have the caption, "Jesus and a Repentant Woman." It presents a striking contrast between the attitude of the Pharisee and that of Jesus toward the erring.

Jesus remarked upon the difference between the Pharisee and himself. The Pharisee had given Jesus no water to wash his feet, no kiss, no ointment for his head. The woman had wet his feet with her tears, wiped them with the hair of her head, and had kissed his feet and anointed them with, perhaps, ointment that she had once intended to use to make her own body more alluring to lecherous men.

Then, with a reference to two debtors, of whom the one owed a great amount, would be more grateful for release, Jesus declared the sinful woman, out of her infinite need, had come to him with overflowing gratitude and true repentance. He then freely forgave within himself. "Was is this that even forgiveth sins?" Jesus said to the woman, "Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace."

This lesson shows the need of sympathy toward the erring, and rebukes the hard attitude of the spiritually proud toward gross sinners. While the lesson puts no premium upon gross sin, it amply shows that the widest can be made clean through faith in Christ. Let us join with our Lord in opening the door of hope to the wayward.

TODAY'S Meditation

The Upper Room
THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, February 7

The unsearchable riches of Christ. (Ephesians 3:8.) Read Ephesians 3:8-21.

In Paul's mind the idea evidently behind this word unsearchable was that Christ is like a continent on which are areas where no human footfall was ever heard; that He is like a region containing riches which have scarcely been tapped. Paul would say that there are in Christ areas which we have never known or visited. How suggestive that is!

Paul speaks of several kinds of unexplored territory. One of these is "riches of his grace." What a pity that we do not realize that we have this for the taking! Another is the "riches of his goodness." Again, to the Romans, Paul speaks of "the riches of his glory." "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things that God hath prepared for them that love him." Paul breaks out into song when he realizes the wealth that is his "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God!"

Do we "possess our possessions?"

Prayer

O Lord, we bless Thee for thy unlimited riches. Forbid that we should live at a poor dying rate, that we perish with hunger while Thy table is laden with spiritual riches. For Jesus' sake, Amen.
